To be compelled, sui it were, to acknowledge our inferiority, would leave an everlasting stain on the learned and the wise of Iran. Then Buzurjmihir had the chessboard and the pieces conveyed into a private chamber; and there he sat for the space of a day and a night, applying the irresistible powers of his penetrating intellect to the investigation of the principles and practice of the game. He examined with care the probable bearing of each piece, till at length the full light burst upon him. Then he hastened from his solitary chamber to the presence of Naushirwan, and thus spoke, O King of victorious destiny, I have carefully examined this board, and these pieces, and at length, by your Majestys good fortune, I have succeeded in discovering...
