I surpassed in iniquities all of the transgressors from Adam to this day. I have desecrated my very head with unseemly desires and thought; my mouth with murderous and lustful words; my tongue with obscenity and profanity, with uttering words of anger and wrath; my hands for reaching for what I should not, with insatiable robbery This extract from the will of Ivan IV of Russia, which he wrote in 1572, and which is translated in George Vernadsky's history of Russia, provides a justification for the traditional view of Ivan the Terrible. Topics covered include: Russia before the accession of Ivan IV, the reigns of Ivan III and...
